SAIL MAKING

Within a couple of hours a number of men perform this enormous task of sewing together small bands of pandanus leaf (see Div. III and next Chapter Div. II) till they form a sail. Among the workers there is an albino.

ROLLS OF DRIED PANDANUS LEAF

This is the material of which the sail is made. The bisila (pandanus streamer) is made of a softer variety of pandanus leaf, bleached at a fire.